Interactive Health Acquires Health Solutions

A single goal of enhancing employee health

CHICAGO (March 6, 2014) – Interactive Health, the leading provider of outcomes-based wellness programs, announced today an expansion of its capabilities with the acquisition of Health Solutions, an award-winning provider of onsite comprehensive wellness services to organizations in the United States and around the world. The acquisition creates the largest U.S.-based, independent company offering integrated workplace wellness solutions. Each company has more than two decades of experience helping its customers improve the wellness of their employees. The combined organization moves forward together with a single goal of enhancing employee health.

"The workplace wellness industry continues to experience tremendous growth, and organizations realize that improving employee health provides a strategic business advantage," said Joseph O'Brien, President and CEO, Interactive Health. "For current and potential clients, this acquisition underscores Interactive Health's belief that employers are best served through comprehensive solutions offered by an experienced partner that delivers results. We are especially excited about the match in the culture of our two companies and the depth of executive and front-line talent that will be joining Interactive Health. Flexibility will continue to be a hallmark of our service model in delighting clients."

"The potential of our new combined company to systematically manage comprehensive wellness services with the integrated data and know-how to transform employee health outcomes is exciting," said Charlie Estey, Interactive Health's EVP of Business Development, who previously served as Health Solutions President. "We are passionate about flawless execution and will continue to provide the same excellent service customers have come to expect from us. We look forward to moving ahead."

Interactive Health will now serve clients in all 50 states, Canada, the United Kingdom and Turkey. Plans are underway to implement services in Poland and Mexico and beyond. Interactive Health serves a wide range of employers, health plans and third-party administrators.

Interactive Health is a portfolio company of New York-based private equity firm CI Capital Partners. CI Capital Partners acquired Interactive Health in partnership with Elliot Cooperstone, the former CEO of Prodigy Health Group.
