

Anteon Named to Forbes' 2005 List of Best Big Companies

By Marc Raybin

FAIRFAX, VA - FEBRUARY 15, 2005 — Anteon International Corporation (NYSE: ANT) announced today it has been named to the Forbes 2005 list of the 400 Best Big Companies in America, earning distinction on the Forbes Platinum List in the category of Software & Services.

Forbes' listing is based on its annual research of approximately 1,000 publicly traded companies across approximately 26 industries. Forbes reviewed companies with at least $1 billion in sales and high rankings for corporate practices. They also looked at long- and short-term sales, earnings growth and stock market performance; and focused on companies with positive book value and a price of at least $5.

"Being cited by Forbes as one of the Best Big Companies in America is an honor for Anteon, and speaks directly to the overall financial health of our company" said Joseph M. Kampf, President and Chief Executive Officer of Anteon. "We have always focused on achieving a sustained high rate of growth and take pride in executing on a sound methodology for winning and growing our business in this space. This recognition is a tribute to not only one of the best management teams in our industry, but also to the quality of people we have, from top to bottom, throughout our company and the quality of the services they deliver to our customers each and every day," Kampf concluded.

The Platinum List is an annual listing of the 400 Best Big Companies in America. It can be found on line at www.forbes.com/platinum400 or in Forbes' January 10, 2005 issue.
